Princess Royal Training Award For Eyres Monsell

We were delighted to find out during the Summer holiday that the school has received a prestigious Princess Royal Training Award. This recognises businesses that are committed to investing in, developing and training their staff to a high standard.

This is great recognition for our hard working staff, who continue to learn new skills and develop their knowledge to support our school and encourage our pupils to strive to succeed.

Eyres Monsell is named as one of 48 businesses to be receiving the award this year, alongside national and international companies such as Lloyds Bank, TSB, HM Revenue and Customs, John Lewis and the Royal Air Force. We are also the only school being honoured with an award this year.

We look forward to visiting St James Palace in London, in October to receive our award from HRH the Princess Royal (Princess Anne) and sharing this award with the school.

Chris Jones, Group Chief Executive, said:

"Congratulations to all 48 organisations who have achieved the Princess Royal Training Awards standard of excellence this year. Once again, it is evidence of the very real benefits that investing in staff development can bring to employers..."

Through the Awards we highlight excellent examples of training that have already proved to be effective and we encourage others to build on their success."
