Ways to help your child's reading

There are lots of ways parents can help your child with their reading, here are a few ideas:

- Sharing a bedtime story.
- Talk about the book your child is reading, ask questions as you read.
- Encourage an older child to read to a younger brother or sister.
- Visit the library.
- Choose a quiet time to read with your child.
- Variety is important—read a range of different reading materials such as picture books, hardbacks, comics, magazines, poems and information books.
- Read favourites again and again. Re-reading helps build fluency and confidence.
